Jessica Pralle-Trimner grew up on her family's registered Holstein farm, Selz-Pralle Dairy in Humbird, WI where they milk 400 cows. She is a University of Wisconsin-Madison dairy science graduate and a decorated Badger Dairy judging team member. Jessica is no stranger to the showing herself, exhibiting numerous animals at county, state, national, and international shows for her family under the Joliam prefix. Currently, Jessica is an owner and dairy herd manager at Miltrim Farms in Athens, WI where she farms with her husband David. They milk 3,200 Holstein cows, 1,800 of which are milked in Wisconsin's largest robotic milking facility housing 30 Lely robots. In her spare time Jessica finds herself volunteering ringside at a number of shows, working with youth across Wisconsin for all things dairy, and more notably Jessica serves as co-superintendent of the International Youth Dairy Cattle Fitting and Showmanship contests held at World Dairy Expo.
